If you purposely hold back information about changes in your household, you and any other adult in your household will owe us the value of any extra food benefits or cash assistance that you receive. You may also be barred from the cash assistance or Food Supplement programs for one year after the first time, 2 years after the second time and permanently after the third time. A judge can also fine you up to $250,000, imprison you for up to 20 years, or both. A judge can also bar you for an additional 18 months. You may also have to face further prosecution under other federal laws.

- For cash and medical assistance, you must report all changes within 10 days.
- Note: When you report a change for any program, your case manager will make the change for all programs.
- For the Food Supplement Program (formerly food stamps)
 - You are required to report when your family's entire gross income is more than the amount listed in the Change Reporting Guide for your household size. You must report this change no later than 10 days from the end of the month in which your income goes up. Add all the gross income that your household got for the month. Be sure to include both earned and unearned income.
 - If you are an able-bodied adult between the ages of 18-47 and have no children in the home, you must also report when your hours of work increase, or decrease to less than 80 hours monthly.
 - You are not required to report any other changes for your Food Supplement case. (But, if you think a change will increase benefits for your family, you should report it.)
