Purpose
The purpose of this policy is to provide guidelines for conversion of monthly and yearly timeframes for previously issued policies to comply with federal program requirements.

Background
Requirements for services to children and families under the Social Security Act have undergone a number of changes in recent years. One of these changes has been the transition of timeframes from months to days. To ensure continued compliance with the federal requirements, recent state laws, regulations, policies and best practices have incorporated the new timeframe references. However, there are still a number of Social Services Administration Circular Letters and Policy Directives that were issued prior to the time reference changes that are otherwise still valid state policy. This policy directive amends the time reference in any otherwise valid circular letter or policy directive to meet current federal requirements.

Requirements for Local Departments of Social Services
Timeframe references for days in SSA circular letters and policy directives refer to calendar days unless otherwise specified. Months should be converted into calendar days unless otherwise specified. Business or working days do not include weekends or official federal and state holidays. School days refer to days that school is in session for a particular school district. Time periods currently 1 to 2 years, with exception of child’s age, should be in months.
